

A road map of a region, possibly in the Northeastern United States, with a red boundary line drawn around it. The boundary is irregular and follows the general shape of the map's content. Red arrows are drawn along the boundary, pointing outwards from the map. In the center of the map, the number '1208.7' is written in large, bold, red, hand-drawn letters. To the right of the number, the word 'MILES' is written in smaller, red, hand-drawn capital letters. The map shows a dense network of roads, with major highways in red and other roads in black. Several cities are labeled, including Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, and Philadelphia. A compass rose is visible in the upper left quadrant of the map.
